Fellowships in Simulation and Education, NYU School of Medicine

Brad Green, MD completed the Fellowship in Simulation and Education. Starting July, 1st he will be an Assistant Professor of Emergency Medicine and the Director of Simulation in the Department of Emergency Medicine at The Ohio State University in Columbus. During his time at NYSIM Brad was instrumental in developing the Procedure Practice and Assessment Course, the Transitions to Residency Simulation Curriculum, and taught many UME, GME, and instructor courses. He and Demian Szyld, MD, EdM, Fellowship Director, presented an oral presentation at the 2014 International Meeting on Simulation in Healthcare in San Francisco titled: "Is this Mic On? The Use of Humor in Simulation Education".

Kelly Medwid, MD completed the Emergency Medicine Simulation Fellowship. During this time Kelly developed and implemented an in-situ simulation program to test the new NYULMC ED as it reopened after superstorm Sandy. Drs. Gang and Smith from Emergency Medicine were her mentors for the project. Kelly also presented the two task trainers she invented: Lateral Canthotomy and Pericardiocentesis.

Starting July 3rd, 2015 Kristen Uquillas, MD will begin her fellowship program at NYSIM. She completed her residency and served as the chief resident at the NYU Obstetrics and Gynecology program. She will be working with Dr. Szyld and the NYSIM team three days per week, with Dr. Veronica Lerner and the NYU OB/GYN team and the IMSAL Fellowship program one day per week each.

Ambrose Wong, MD and Neel Naik, MD completed the residency in Emergency Medicine at NYU and also served as chief residents. They will both begin their fellowship training year in Emergency Medicine Simulation under the direction of Dr. Maureen Gang and Dr. Demian Szyld.

The first NYSIM Nursing/Allied Health Fellow will begin in September. Grace Ng will be directing this program.

Please congratulate our graduates and welcome Kristen, Neel and Ambrose!

Moving the Field of Simulation Forward

National and international meetings are important for scholarly fields to develop community, expertise and knowledge. NYSIM is contributing to these efforts in many ways. In addition to hosting the second annual Hot Topics Symposium on Simulation Education on October 15th 2014

(<http://nysimcenter.org/learn/nysim-events>) NYSIM contributed to the annual meeting of the Association for Standardized Patient Educators

(<http://www.aspeducators.org>), International Nursing Simulation/Learning Resource Centers

(<http://www.inacsl.org>), and the New Zealand Association for Simulation in Healthcare (<http://nzash.co.nz>).

Ginny Drda and Meg Anderson, our resident Simulation Facilitators and Standardized Patient Educators, attended the ASPE Meeting in Indianapolis, IN.

Demian Szyld, MD, EdM was the Keynote speaker at the NZASH Annual Symposium in Christchurch, New Zealand. He gave a talk about debriefing in the clinical setting entitled: "No time to reflect? Real Quality Care through Simulation and Debriefing" and also presented a short workshop with colleagues from the University of Otago Christchurch Simulation Centre and the Canterbury District Health Hospital on "Debriefing Debriefers".

Grace Ng, MS, CNM, RNC-OB, C-EFM was in Orlando, Florida for the International Nursing Simulation/Learning Resource Centers Conference. She co-presented the pre-conference workshop "An Essential Formative Assessment Tool for Your Debriefing Toolbox" with five other nursing colleagues from the University of Maryland, Drexel University, Oregon Health & Science University, and The Center for Medical Simulation/Harvard Medical School. Approximately 50 participants attended the 4-hour workshop to practicing debriefing with each other, as well as giving and receiving of feedback on their debriefing skills from the workshop faculty.
